PASO HERALD

Established April, 1881. The El Paso Herald Includes also, by absorption succession, The Daily News, The Telegraph, The Telegram, The Tribune, The Graphic, The Sun, The Advertiser, The Independent, The Journal, The Republican, The Bulletin.

MEMBER ASSOCIATED PRESS AND AMER. NEWSP. PUBLISHERS' ASSOC. Entered at the Postoffice in El Paso, Tex., as Second Class matter. Dedicated to the service of the people, that no good cause shall lack a champion, and that evil shall not thrive unopposed.

The Daily Heraid is issued six days a week and the Wookly Heraid is published every Thursday, at El Paso. Texas; and the Sunday Mail Edition is also sent to Weekly Subscribers.

TELEPHONES.

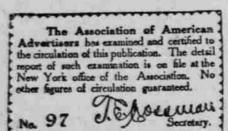

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

Pally Herald, per month, 60c; per year, $7. Weekly Herald, per year, $2. The Daily Herald is delivered by carriers in El Paso, East El Paso, Fort Elisz and Towne, Texas, and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, at 60 certs a month.

A subscriber desiring the address on his paper changed will please state in his communication both the old and the new address.

Subscribers fairing to get The Herald promptly should call at the office or telephone No. 115 before 6:30 p. m. All complaints will receive prompt atten-

GUARANTEED CIRCULATION. The Herald bases all advertising contracts on a guarantee of more than twice the circulation of other El New Mexico or west Texas pa-

HERALD TRAV-ELING AGENTS Persons solicited to subscribe for The Herald should beware of imposters and should not pay money to anyone unless he can show that he is legally author-

Paso Herald.

The Little Farm Well Tilled

THE average wheat production per acre in Germany and England is more than double the average in the United States. The highest average in this country is found in New England, and the lowest in the so-called wheat belt. In the west we are apt to run to acreage rather than to intensive cultivation. One farmer in Illinois has grown 114 bushels of corn to the acre; the methods he uses are available to every farmer in the country, but the national average is only a fraction of this farmer's rate of production.

It is a mistake, especially in an irrigated region, to try to cultivate too much land. Thorough cultivation of a small tract, careful selection and rotation of crops will be more profitable than spreading out over more acreage than the farmer can properly care for

In this valley, owing to the high initial price of land, we shall have to come to the small home farm of five to 20 acres. The land should be improved now and got under crops, even though it be necessary to instal pumping plants, for only in this way will the owners be in position to enjoy the profits that will come with the completion of the big dam.

New Mexico wool is bringing top prices in the market. The wool industry of the new state will become increasingly important. Large storage warehouses will follow, in order to enable growers to control their prices better, and then will come the factories. The southwest should develop factories in every staple line in which the raw materials can be had under favorable conditions.

Alamogordo's Good Fortune

RILLERS for the ice company at Alamogordo passed through one stratum of water at 25 feet, and at 60 feet they struck, in coarse gravel, a heavy flow of water which rose in the pipe to within three feet of the surface.

This is true artesian water, even though it does not flow out on the surface of the ground. The pumping cost is reduced to almost nothing when the water rises this way. The strike is of immense importance to Alamogordo and that

The scal in the Alamogordo valley for many miles in all directions is exceedingly rich and only needs water to make it highly productive. With water power in the nearby mountains to be converted into electric energy for pumping purposes, permanent abundant water rising to three feet of the surface, and an ideal climate, that section should become a highly developed fruit and truck producer.

The main thing in adopting a constitution for the new states is to confine them to fundamental principles and leave them free from general legislation. They should be of a sort that can be adopted with few dissenting votes. A constitution is not a fit subject for partisan dissension, but should be made the concern of all the people. There must be some things on which even the party leaders in the territories can agree.

Stick To the Staples

GOOD thing for valley horticulturists to remember is not to plant too many varieties. Fruit nowadays is handled by the carload in the important markets and buyers are apt to reject mixed cars. There is no reason why an orchardist should try to grow more than four or five choice varieties of apples, for instance, maturing at different periods.

The one thing, more than all others, that has held this valley back has been the comparative small quantities produced at any one time of any one commodity. This is the secret of the failure of the valley farmers to displace California products in the markets of the southwest. The middlemen must deal in quantities and they must know where and when the goods are coming forward to fill their

It will be a good scheme to send a carload of representative El Pasoans to Chicago and St. Louis to advertise the resources of this section among the leaders in all kinds of business. A better plan yet would be to bring those same leaders down here on a personally conducted excursion. Even if it cost $10,000 to bring 20 men here for a few days' visit it would pay, and at least $500,000 would be invested here as a result of the trip.

Oil In West Texas

HE oil field in west Texas is undoubtedly one of the most extensive in the country. Oil has been found 30 miles east of Pecos, 15 to 20 miles west of Toyah, and in between, indicating that the oil belt runs at least 50 miles across the country; how far it extends north and south is wholly problematical, although oil has been found all the way from Santa Rosa on the head waters of the Pecos southerly far into the interior of Mexico in the same general formation.

In most cases so far oil has been found in wells drilled for water. There has been comparatively little development work carried on by practical oi lmen in any part of the field. This movement, however, is now well under way and it looks as if within the next five years we were to have an opportunity of finding out just what the value of our oil resources may be.

Gold mining in the Mogollon mountains of New Mexico continues to prosper. There are some of the richest gold mines in the country in that section, and they are gradually passing into strong hands. New Mexico's mining outlook is exceedingly bright. The territory needs thorough and capable advertising in order to bring in abundant capital and practical mining men.

Dr. Crippen's companion was dressed as a boy, but she tucked up her badly fitting suit with a safety pin, and it was the captain of the ship who first noticed the feminine attachment. All their luggage was one small suit case, though the doctor told how he was taking his boy to California for the winter. It is curious that the United States has on hand at the same time two cases of terrible crimes committed in foreign countries by Americans. Charlton, who killed his wife in Italy, will probably be declared insane and extradition resisted. Dr. Crippen was arrested in Canada and the United States will not resist his extradition to England. British courts do not trifle with Climinals and Crippen has not percent of the chances of escape that he would have if his trial were held in the United States.

UNCLE WALT'S Denatured Poem

H, his heart is sore as he does his chore, and digs in the mellow dirt; the absysmal brute is a dismal plute, for money won't heal his hurt. And perhaps he grunts as he does his stunts, when his brow with sweat is damp; Ah, I might have died in a glod of pride, as the undefeated champ! Had ! stayed away from that fateful fray, and hoed in my onion patch, I might have strolled through the world till old, and never have met my match. But the dopesters came, and they said: 'The game is doomed if you don't come back!' So I left my squash and my succotash, and ILFF my braw alfalfa stack. And I tried to feel that my thews of steel were good as they were of yore; but alas! one poke from that dingy smoke, and I saw that my youth was o'er!" and a lesson we in this tale may see, and paste it inside our hats; if we get too gay when we're old and gray, we're apt to have broken shats. If we lend our ears to the sport who queers his friends for his paramount Issue in the campaign of own advance, we're apt to wake with the belliake, and find that our name is last January. It must be admitted that

Copyright, 1910, by George Matthews Adams,

Woes Mason

THE BET

The Herald's Daily Short Story

o and be king, while I, the ruined, will have His to accept charity from him. It is too old banker walked restlessly up and down the floor of his library. His thoughts went back to a night fifteen before, when he had given a great dinner Around his table were sitting learned and noble men whose thoughts and aims had always been to further the progress of humanity. Conversation drifted from one subject to another and at last the ized by the El subject of capital punishment was brought up. Several of the guests thought it should be abolished and imorisonment for life made to take its candle.

> more just and more humane than imprisonment for lire. The one kills the riminal instantly, the other inch by "Both are to be equally condemned," aid one of the guests, "for both take away from a man his life and you have no right to take from a man what you annot give back.

Among the guests was a young lawer of twenty-five, who had remained silent and merely listened to the ar-guments of the others. Now he sud-"Yes both capital punishment and imprisonment are bad, but given the shoice I would choose imrisonment. To live even, if only like a plant, is better than not to live."

"No," cried the banker, "I bet two million rouples you would not let me put you in a cell for five years of your wn free will." "If you are in earnest," said the law-er, "I take the bet, though not for five but for fifteen years."

"Accepted." exclaimed the banker. men I bet two millions against he fifteen years. "Accepted," said the lawyer, "your millions against my freedo And thus this insane bet began. Now that the fifteen years had almost assed the banker asked himself: "Why did I accept this insane wager? What did I gain by this man losing fifteen years of his life and I two million Nothing has been proved by On my part it was merely a whim

The prisoner had been given two rooms in a wing of the banker's house. For fifteen years he must not leave them, must not see any visitors, hear any human voice, receive any letters or Anything he wished he must write down and pass the order through a window in silence. He was to remain in his prison from November 14, 1870, at noon, until November 14, 1885, noon. The smallest attempt to break the rules was to release the banker from his obliga-

The first year the prisoner was very well satisfied. He played the piano day and night, but never touched wine or obacco, while he read love stories, novis, detective stories and plays.

The second year he stopped playing and asked for classical books. In the year he again began to play and dia little but eat and sleep.

During the last half of the sixth year he studied languages, history and philosophy, and during the four next years he read more than 600 volumes. During the last two years the prisonr read a great deal, but was not very areful in his selection of his books. banker remembered all these things. The next day at twelve o'clock the prisoner was to be set free and receive his two millions.

nan." he thought. Fifteen years before the money would have been a mere trifle to him. but speculation had eaten up his for-tune, and now he was feverishly watch-stant dread of ruin. That damned wager," the whitehaired man mumbled, pressing his came running and reported that the hands against his face in despair. "Why is he not dead? Now he is 40 years old. banker had sealched the room he went He will take my last kopeck, marry and out and locked up the strange docuenjoy life. He, the pauper, will specu- ment in his safe.

Outside the clock struck three. The bankruptcy to me. His death-much! His life means disgrace and banker listened. Everyone in the house was asleep. With the air of a man committing a crime he took from his safe the key of the door that had not been opened for fifteen years. He found the seal unbroken and Gooked through of the guests the window into the prisoner's ro-Thre was a faint light from a single "I cannot agree with you," said the door. On the table, the chairs and the host. "I have neither tried one nor the other, but I think capital punishment is motionless. Fifteen years imprisonmotionless. Fifteen years imprison-ment had taught him to sit unmovable

The banker knocked at the window. but the figure gave no sign of life. It was like a dead body. The banker went to the door and carefully removed the seal. The rusty hinges screeched and the door creaked. He stood waiting. His heart was beating wildly in expectation of hearing a scream from the room, but no sound came and he en-

At the table sat a creature with no resemblance whatever to a human being. It was a skeleton, a figure whose skin was stretched over the fleshless bones, whose hair was hanging down in long locks like those of a woman, while cheeks and chin were hidden by an im-mense beard. The face was yellowish, cheeks sunken, the back long and narrow. The hand supporting the head was so thin and bony that it was almost a physical pain to look at it. The hair had begun to turn gray.

"Péor devil," the banker thought, "he is asleep, no doubt dreaming perhaps of the millions he is to get in a few hours. All I need to do is to lay him on the bed and smother him with itely abandoned the doctrine of protecdid not die a natural death. great effort. But first I will read what he has writ;

He bent down and read: Tomorrow at twelve I shall be free, free once more to associate with other human beings, but before I leave this it. On my part it was merely a walling for room and see the sun once more, I want and on its, a poor man's cracing for to say a few words to you. I being in full possession of my mental powers and facing my God do declare that I despise freedom of life, health and all other things considered the blessings of this world. For fifteen years I have studied any human voice, receive any letters or newspapers. He was permitted to play and read books, write letters, drink in the players and from life and have not seen any man, but in the books I drank good wine, sang songs, hunted in the woods and loved beautiful women. books, I climbed the peaks of Elbaron and Montblanc. I saw cities, green forests, smiling valleys and lakes. books, I threw myself into bottomless abysses. I created wonderful beings, burned off cities, proclaimed new religions, conquered empires. "The books have given me wisdom. All that human genius accomplished through ages is contained in my brain.

I know I am wiser than all of you. I tained by love and fear—love of the despise your books. I hate the bless- crown and fear of foreign foes. To ings of life. Everything is small, in-significant and worthless like a fata organa in the desert. "Be as proud and wise as you may, death will reach you at last, and your descendants, your history and the imnortality of your gentus will disappear with this earth. Fools you are that you do not follow the road you ought to You take lies for truth, lack of harmony for beauty. I do not want you to understand me, but to show you how I despise the things you cling to, I give my claim to the two millions I used to deprive myself of any right to them the time expires. When the banker had read this he kissed the strange man's forehead and ng the stockticker every day in con- left the room crying like a person who wakes from a horrible dream. Next morning the night watchman

ENGLISHMEN ARE FIGHTING FOR PROTECTIVE TARIFF

XXVIII-THE BRITISH CRISIS.

social legislation advocated by the Lib-election definitely determined but one men, mostly ex-liberals, who are genulnely frightened by the spectre of So-the essential weakness of the orthodox Torvism. So it was in the last cam-

Chamberlain and shouted itself hoarse

English Idens vs. American.

Britain means exactly the opposite of what it does in the United States.

Tariff reform in England is a sugar-and Bright a little more than half century ago. So successful was that free trade battle that the Tory party defin-

Great Britain has practically no customs are derived from such cles as to prevent even a slight incidental protection. In this respect Great

The patriotic intelligence of the Un-onist party deplores this isolation, no

Britain the Dumping Ground.

Tariff reformers refer to Great Britain as the "dumping ground" of the nalaymen, that reinforced concrete is but as a matter of fact, the permanency sider is, if the removal of a concrete building becomes necessary, it is al-namite. Furthermore, the debris from such a building is absolutely valueless, whereas in a steel building the mate-

Another feature to be considered is ina concrete building over a steel constructed building. Also the beams and when the ceiling is lighted, cast shad-number of lights, which add considerably to the cost and maintenance of the

As to the comparative cost of beth tion about 10 percent cheaper than reinforced concrete on first cost, but by the rapidity in which a steel struc-may have possession in 25 percent less ows on other parts of the room, or fore permanent than steel construction,

However, one thing to con-instead of to one.

building.

It is superfluous, perhaps, to remind attack upon privilege; the party for tariff reform

Frederic J. Haskin

If the tariff reformers had contented ONDON, Eng., Aug. 2 .- If the Tories | themselves with demanding a moderate win in the next general election in Great Britain it will be because revenue tariff, with incidental protect tion, upon manufactured articles, it is probable that their propaganda would they hold the trump card of tariff re-The Conservatives, or unionists, have ben even more successful. But it as they prefer to call themselves, inwas necessary to convert the sisted that the tariff question was the landlords, who can be reached only by one argument-profit or its equivalent last January. It must be admited that the Unionist gains in that election And therefore the tariff reformers promised a tariff duty on wheat had other nearly all were the result of the tarbreadstuffs, saying it would increase iff reform propaganda. If the camthe value of the farm products of Great paign had been fought altogether up-Britain, said farms being owned by a on the tariff issue the Unionists would few landlords, and that it would, there-fore bring about a revival of agriculhave won a victory. This has been admitted by the shrewdest politicians of the Liberal party, who recognized the ture in the country Wheat Tariff Injurious fact, even before the election, that

The free traders replied that the tar-iff on wheat, if it aided the landlords at Liberalism could not hope to win in a defensive battle solely on the issue of all, simply would raise the free trade. It was equally certain that wheat and therefore of bread, to the inthey could not win except by supporting jury of the 90 per cent of the British Tr was a stormy November night. The late on the exchange where I used to crisis precipitated by the clash between bread. It was pointed out that Great free trade. Although the constitutional commons and lords, and the progressive Britain now, under the most favorable circumstances, can grow about one eral government, resulted directly in a fourth of the breadstuffs it uses, and feeble victory for the Radicals, the that all of the colonies together do not as yet produce a sufficient surplus of thing, and that was that free trade is wheat to make up the other three-no longer a settled doctrine of British fourths of the British consumption Bread is very much cheaper in Great Britain than in the United States. If the Unionist party could stand Great Britain produces a smaller prosquarely on the merits of its doctrines portion of its own bread than any other of democratic imperialism and tariff bread eating nation. The cheap white reform, it probably would be able to bread of England is cheap because En-Thre was a faint light from a candle. The prisoner was sitting at candle. The prisoner was sitting at destroy the present radical-liberal orbits table, his back turned towards the ganization. The trouble is that demovable the chairs and the ocratic imperialism and tariff reform the "hungry forties", when Englishmen revolted and forced the repeal of the are shibboleths of a comparatively few cialism. They depend for votes upon a following purely Tory, made up of the privileged landlord class, the established church, and the li, or trade. saign the bread question became the principle theme for speakers on both sides of the tariff issue. The Liberals sides of the tariff issue. That these Liberal Unionists leaders are able to dictate the positive policies of the Tory political machine is proof of the essential weakness of the ortho-The Conservatives replied that it wasn't true; that black bread was better anypaign, when the Liberals made a direct how; and that King Edward ate German black bread every day, proving the last statement by the baker who privilege declining a direct battle, fol-lowed the lead of the erstwhile Redical supplied the bread to Buckingham pal-The great black bread issue was proof of how important a trivial matter may become in British politics. "Make the Foreigner Pay." The tariff reformers on the stump, the reader that tariff reform in Great possessing either the brains or the boldness of Mr. Chamberlain, who was Ill at his home, fell back upan mouthcoated phrase meaning protection, the word "protection" being odious on account of the great free trade movement successfully lead by Cobilen filling phrases in lieu of argument. On every stump the Tory spellbinders offered tariff reform as a substitute for the land taxes and the liquor taxes imposed by the Lloyd-George budget; admitting that more revenue was necessary but proposing to "make the for-eigner pay." With the exception of With the exception of two or three of the most prominent men in the Conservative party, all the Tory campaigners declared that under the tariff, levying only a small tax on tobacco, spirits, perfumes and other protective system the foreigner pays the tax. They proved it by quotations from Republican newspapers published in the such luxuries, and upan tea and a few other non-competitive articles. The principle of protection is denied in the British tariff system, and its revenue

> Brend Question Discussed It happened that in the January cam-

United States thirty years ago. Both sides referred often to the United States in discussing the tariff ques-tion. The Tories said that the United States was the most prosperous nation in the world, and that its workmen re-Britain stands alone among all the nations of the earth, separated even from its own colonies by tariff barriers; wholly defenceless in a tariff war because deprived of the only weapon effective in such warfare—the power of retails—tion.

In the world, and that its workment received fabulous wages and paid no more into leaving him.

What would you advise? Do you think it is his duty to support his motheriniaw at the risk of dishonests, or do you think be should tell her to leave? their purposes from the debases on the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill.

Workmen Conservative. The result was that a great many wrkingmen, who otherwise would have longer ['splendid", and would substitute for the present system an imperial tarbeen Liberais, voted for Conservative candidates because they believed that iff union, which would institute a pro-tective tariff for Great Britain, and, by tariff reform would save them from means of a preferential system, include all parts of the British empire within the British tariff boundary, thus effectthe ruinous effects of foreign competin, and would make them the equals of the American workingmen. Another ing an economic union of the empire. Solidarity of the empire now is mainresult was that a great many wealthy manufacturers—whose only hope of continued prosperity is based upon an abundance of free raw material and a continued era of cheap cost of living add-interest. Just now Great Britain for their workmen who can give no preferential favors to the might have been Conserva might have been Conservative, voted commerce of its colonies, because its er the Radical candidates. ports are free and either colonial or alien may bring in his wares without pay-

There is strong reason to believe that the remarkable struggle for tariff reing anything to the customs officers. form begun eight years ago when Mr. Chamberlain resigned from the Balfaur cabinet to take up the work of the tarthe "dumping ground" of the na-Any manufacturing nation can fication of the British system of free send its wares into England to compete trade. The tariff reformers are the foes on a basis of entire equality with Brit-ish manufacturers. Therefore, when competition that British fears are competition that Britain fears "If I pay him, I shall be a ruined to dream of but which I now hate, and trade is dull and factories are closed, more than foreign warships. As matit is comparatively easy to convince the ters stand today, tariff reform is the I will leave the room five hours before workmen that he is suffering because trump card in possession of the Tory of this free and untrammeled foreign party.

Tomorrow-The Way It Works.

have to suffer. There is a prevailing opinion, among the public, uting the materials to several concerns, his lack of experience the public will

How long is the Stone & Webster empany to think that a man is born infallible if he happens to be the son of a stockholder in that company or she knew and loved your wife before takes on infallibility by marriage to consideration, for either is equally as some stockholder's daughter or some one related in some way to the company? If anyone dares stand forth and try to defend the company's action most impossible without the use of dyin this matter I shall fight him from a to izzard, from Dan to Beersheba and from hell to breakfast. I shall point to men that have labored day in and day out for the company and know of the actual value of the original the business from beginning to end, and say, why did they not appoint this one or that If his hearing appears to bad or he tries to turn a deaf ear. If his hearing appears to be the excess number and size of columns shall cry aloud, saying. Where is Tom German? Where is W. W. Lucas? Where is Tom Leonard? Where is Frank Howgirders below the floor slab, which, ard? Where is Hansen? Where is Pearce and where are others, all of who me there is an added gentlemen of the best type and are skilled men in the street car business? Would it not have been far better to have appointed one of them? Either them as inspector would be a credit materials, I will say that, from recent estimates, figures show steel constructo the company and a great benefit to

Is there any hope for a change of existing conditions? Are there not oth-Paso going to idly fold our hands, close our mouths and let things go from bad to worse without even making a pro-Are we to sit down and watch the army of the lame and halt increase without a dissenting murmur Are we to visit the graves or our fellowmen and after looking upon the mounds heaped up as we believe by the carelessness and neglect of the company, smite our breasts and return without making a vow to ask for better condi Are we to listen to the wailing of widows and orphans and the weeping of relatives and friends without shed ding a sympathetic tear? On the night of February 20, last, when fate was against me and it was my unhappy lot buildings in course of construction, at the same one cement supplied by young man recently appointed. I have to dook upon the lifeless forms of two Many theories have been advanced as another local industry is extensively no reason to doubt, means well and victims of the worst street car accident to the cause of the duliness, but to my used for footings, foundations, floor could do well if he only had a few that I ever witnessed my heart was agen mind and observation, the main reason coverings, mortar, etc., thereby distrib- years' experience on the cars, but for heavily burdened and especially did soon.

It's better t' have a job than t' be alus acceptin' a position. Did you ever notice how a feller smiles after he puts a lot o' relatives on th' train fer home?

Abe Martin

my sympathies go out for the wife and habes at home. I knew that the wife that awalted the coming footsteps of er husband would not hear them more and the bright eved babe that perhaps had already fallen asleep to awake in the morning for a play with papa would ery in vain for him, and I said in my heart, Who is responsible for all this: Let the public investigate and without a doubt it will come to the same con-

That great mistakes are being made by the company and that those mis-takes are detrimental to the public wel-fare is bound to be conceded by those who are familiar with the state of affairs. This being true, will someone that is better qualified to do so than I suggest a remedy whereby changes for the better could possibly be gotten at. Yours for a greater and better El E. H. Florence

* A CASE OF MOTHERINLAW. By Winifred Black,

DEAR Winifred Black: I am writing to you of a couple I know. The husband is kind and loving. He makes a good living for himself and wife. They live in a coxy two room apartment in a small town. They were getting along fine until lately the wife's mother, who is a widow, but strong and healthy and has been in the habit of making her own living, came to live with them.

The husband, who is very young is employed where he has to do collecting. and in order to support his motherinlaw, has had to hold out some of the money collected. The motherinlaw knows she is causing trouble and once when he came home unexpectedly he found his wife and her mother packing

He is getting desperate. He cannot attend to his work for worry wondering leaver

When he speaks to his wife about it, her answer is, "She is my mother." Yours respectfully,

An Interested Reader. Yes, it's a genuine letter, and it came in the mail this very morning. Hard to believe, isn't it? That money wasn't yours, young man. You had no more right to take it to support your mother-inlaw, than you would have to rob a wife's brother. Stealing is stealing and all the long names you want to call it don't alter its character the least little bit in the world.

As to the motherinlaw. Why don't you have a good plain talk with your wife about the matter? Not a high tempered quarrel with both of you saying all the mean things you can think about each other's relatives—but a plain, sensible talk. Tell your wife just how much money you are making, and ask her to decide what to do about it. When she finds that the responsibility of that money is going to fall on her sulders, to she may look at it in an entirely different light. As to the motherinlaw herself, I would not live under the same roof with any human being who disliked me so bitterly-not if that human being were a hundred times my wife's mother. Dislike and anger are as deadly a poison as cyanide of potassium, and I'd just as soon drink carbolic acid for breakfast and be done with it as to take the coffee which had been made for me by one who hates me and wants to make me unhappy.

you ever heard of her. She brought up from a little helpless baby and, of course, she doesn't think you are good enough for her. You'll understand the way she feels on the day your first bern daughter is married; but in the ageantime don't hate her and don't be arkery with her. But do not live with

I would rather live on weak tea and dry bread with love and contentment in the house than to sit down to eight courses with anger and hatred at the Talk the thing over quietly with your wife-if she is the right sort of woman, she'll decide what to do and she will decide justly.

GEOLOGIST RECOVERS FROM SERIOUS ILLIESS.

Dr. C. F. Z. Caracristi, the geologist and engiteer who has New York and London offices, and who has been ill at Hotel St. Regis during the last month, has improved sufficiently to be out of danger. Dr. Caracristi has been identiexisting conditions? Are there not others being stall fed in the east to fill zas interests in Mexico, and has done vacancies in the official force here? Are we as human beings and citizens of El sulphur fields. He is known in every country that has large mining interests. particularly in Latin America.

MINER VISITS CITY.

W. S. Noyes, a mining engineer of San Francisco Cal., is at the St. Regis on his way to the famous Shafter, Tex., silver mines in Presidio county, Texas, of which he is the general manager and

George H. Clements, who has been seriously III at the Angelus, was taken to his ranch below Ysleta Monday aftermon, where he will remain until he has recovered. His condition is much improved and he expects to resume his business as the general agent for a Los Angeles stone company

Little Editorials By Herald Readers

Editor El Paso Herald:

Saturday's Herald stated that the Rio Grande was no longer such, but now Although no stream trickles guifward and an occasional oasis is found, the American boy en-joys himself as much or more than if the treacherous Rio Grande still flowed

In passing over the street car bridge smelter car line one can see the boy himself, with negroes and Mexicans, plunging happily in the muddy water and come to the surface and swim to The water is deep enough to swim in and generally in the morning at 10 e'clock and the afternoon at 2 'clock, a good sized bunch of Americans, negroes and Mexicans can be seen near the railroad bridge. "Music hath harms and so has muddy water on a

In that same pool many of our El Pase boys learned the art of swimming which will be useful to them some day. It makes a man feel like a boy again and remember the "old swimming hole" of long ago to see the American boy homeward with a sunburnt, but

THE COST OF BUILDING.

Editor El Paso Herald: In the past few weeks I have been hants remark as to the dullness of

Of course, there are several trades that are employed in any kind of a ture is erected the owner of a building structure, but if steel construction is used it would give employment American structural steel erectors, brick masons stone masons, tile layers, carpenters, etc., and also reduce Mexican labor to a minimum.

Some have the idea firmly imbedded in their minds that by the use of concrete we are using home products, but they do not consider that if steel is used it is all fabricated and erected by our local concerns. The actual cost of the structural steel costing but very little more than the reinforcing steel, also the labor is very much less in erecting. The hollow tile used in floors nuch impressed by hearing several mer-hants remark as to the dullness of local manufacturers, also there are sevbusiness and they wonder as to its eral local brick plants that can supply that has been in the business cause, as there were so many new large the brick for the exterior walls. Yet, enough to know all its phases.

rials removed are worth 20 to 30 per cent

It seems almost unreasonable to attribute it to this cause, but when one considers the small number of skilled mechanics employed on the work and the large number of Mexicans (most of whom live in Juarez) it shows, very clearly, that there is practically no work here for many skilled American workmen, consequently they have moved to other cities where they can find employment. If one will take the troable to inquire of any workingman, he will inform you that there are not one-third of the number of building mechanics residing in El Paso there were three years ago.

time than buildings of other types, and be receiving a revenue from his prop erty for that length of time, which would be fair to deduct from the contract price. There are several examples where two buildings of each maand the steel structure was the first

Walter L. Falvey.

TROLLEY SHORTCOMINGS. Editor El Paso Herald: We all know that an inspector for the electric railway should be a well trained and experienced man, a man that has been in the business long